

Corally SP12X

Contributed by REV Scale
Thursday, 09 February 2006
Last Updated Wednesday, 21 February 2007

Corally has released it's new 12th scale car. The SP12X should be available at the end of Feb

Corally has returned to it's original color scheme which was red/silver. The new car looks a lot like the old SP12 but the car is totally different. The new front end suspension is totally new and the motor pod is a complete new design. The only design that remained is the tube dampers. I find these tube dampers worst ever made for a car of this quality.

Â Update:

The SP12X should be available after the world championship this is been held 1-2-3 July in Italy.