

Potential Stealth 12th scale body

Contributed by REV Scale
Monday, 11 June 2007

Japanese firm Potential has release a new 12th scale body after several months of testing. The body is made of 0.6 clear polycarbonate. The new body should be more stabile along with better overall grip and turning ability on most type of track surface. The body should be released at the end of June.

Â

Source: RedRC and Potential